

April 24th

119 Madison Avenue.

Dear Bella. Your letters enclosing the two Yorkshire ones came safely. I have amply fulfilled my promise since 1855 annually renewed, to let the Suffolk friends know when there was no further need of their contributions, & I could think of any reason for their finding through me, except the one their expressions suggest, of personal respect & esteem. May perhaps still continue to help, using my name; Crosskeys were among these subs, to the limit of £5. As to the Alabama, of course I can't bid any body not be in a passion, because that would only put them into more of a passion.

But I do what I can to use to the best advantage all channels open to me on both sides of the water, for the promotion of dispassionate judgment & right action.

I have no complaint to make of not having been successful.

Bessy Fisk is engaged to d' Hanterville. We are all well.

I enclose a sketch of my new going gown. I have a new bonnet - black lace over white. Nothing remarkable - does well enough. 27.

I see plenty of black bargain for dresses, $3.50 In dress pattern & 27 yds. + +

We are in a great hustle making ready for the Jays who are turned out of house & home before Bedford can be got ready. (For it is the case of the prisoners who were to be provided for while the old Jail-materials were being used to build the new Jail with.) And we are all in confusion - not a car - just except on my room, & they won't let me give that to Mr. & Mrs. Jay, who, as far as I can see, must stump about on bare boards.

In haste yours

J.M.C.

The one in a front pocket of the book is the only one we have seen of the kind before. The paper is of the kind used in the book of the year 1800 when it was published for the first time. The book was bound in a half-bound style. The title is in all caps. The paper is of a light color - not a tan - but white or very light yellow. The binding is
 book of the year 1800.
 The book is about the size of a pocket book.
